

TO ORCHARD MEN TO ORGANIZE

Salt Lake County Fruit Growers Will Form Association to Market Crops.

WILL BUILD BIG CANNERY NEXT SEASON'S CROP WILL NOT BE WASTED.

Through the efforts of J. Edward Taylor, secretary of the state board of horticulture, a large number of fruit-growers in the southern and eastern parts of Salt Lake county have determined to build a fruit packing, canning and evaporating plant, which will be ready for operation by the time next season's fruit crop is ripening for the market.

Secretary Taylor has been working with the fruit growers for several seasons to induce them to adopt "association methods" in handling and marketing their fruits. The first experiment in this line was made by a number of fruit growers this season, with such satisfactory results that a fruit growers' association may be formed before next season's crop is ready for market. The entire summer has been spent by Secretary Taylor working with the fruit raisers of Mill Creek and the eastern end of the county, endeavoring to demonstrate the value of the methods that are followed by the fruit growers of California, Oregon and Colorado.

"It is a well known fact," he said last night, "that the majority of orchards in this county are mixed in the varieties of peaches which are raised, and with but few exceptions not a grower is able to market a car at a time. The markets of the world are open to Utah fruit, and it is only a question of getting the fruit properly packed and in sufficient quantities to make car lots, to take advantage of the markets."

Secretary Taylor has been successful in bringing the fruit growers to a realization of this condition and is getting the growers together. As a result of this work three full cars of extra-choice peaches were loaded at Murray and shipped to Stacey & Sons at Minneapolis during the last week. The fruit growers are beginning to realize the great possibilities of this section as a peach-growing section. Heretofore the fruit has been sold on the Salt Lake market and, in a season like the present one, when the crop is abnormally large, the growers are confronted by an over-crowded market. Figuring on the prices received from the shipment of three cars, there have been more than $5,000 worth of peaches wasted in this county this season.

The three-car shipment last week was from the orchards of Sellers Brothers, H. J. Debenham, Frank Russell, James Russell and the Mt. Olympus fruit farm, owned by J. V. Taylor, in the East Mill Creek district, and the farms of Joe Moss, Chris Peterson, Lars Larson and Milo Andrus of Holladay district.

Strength in Union. "The great advance made by the fruit growers of southern California, and their control of the market, have been brought about by the California Citrus Growers' association, and similar organizations," said Secretary Taylor. "The same may be said of the Grand Junction and Hood River fruit growers. These associations are comprised of the fruit growers themselves, and they and their market and attend to the packing on a small commission basis. The commission charged is not more than half that charged by regular commission dealers.

"These associations get crates and cases in enormous quantities, and all other materials needed in packing fruits for market, at the lowest prices at which they can be obtained in the quantities in which they are required. The associations sell these supplies to the farmers at a slight advance over the original cost, and carry the farmers, when necessary, until the crop is marketed.

"B. E. Merrill, the purchasing agent who bought the salt Lake county peaches for the Minneapolis purchaser, passed through a number of orchards with me in this county recently, and said that never before had he seen any fruit that had better quality, flavor and appearance and was free from diseases than the fruit of this county. Great quantities of this fruit were rotting on the ground.

"The fruit growers are awakening to this waste and will be prepared by next season to prepare their fruit for market. That which cannot be sold fresh will be canned or evaporated, and the result will be that they will derive a revenue from what has heretofore been wasted.

NOT WORTHY OF NOTICE. (London Tattler.) Maud—I have just received an offer of marriage which came by post this morning. He said that his love for me was great but that his income was small.

Marle—What a pity! Who was it from? Maud—I really didn't notice. That was enough.

WHEN IT AUTO, BUT WON'T. (Stray Stories.) "What does this mean—a six horse-power motor car?"

"Why, one that requires six horses to drag it home, when something goes wrong with the works."

NO CHANGE OF VENUE. NEW BANK FOR LEHI.

Judge Booth So Decides in Prosecutions for Violation of City Ordinances.

Provo, Sept. 29.—There can be no change of venue from the city justice's courts of the state, in case of prosecutions for violations of the city ordinances. Such is the holding of Judge Booth in the district court. The question was raised in the case of Provo City vs. A. H. De Long defendant was prosecuted for the offense of battery under the city ordinance, and before the commencement of the trial, filed an affidavit, in the usual form, asking for a change of venue to some other jurisdiction, holding that such could not be had under the law. The defendant appealed under the district court, where the cause was argued before Judge Booth by City Attorney Thomas for the city and Attorney Bagley for the defendant on Friday afternoon. After the argument the court took the matter under advisement until Saturday morning, when the ruling as to the question was announced. The city officers are much pleased with the effect of the decision.

HIS DEATH WAS SUDDEN Emil Anderson Succumbs to Attack of Apoplexy—Had Suffered Previous Attack.

American Fork, Sept. 29.—Emil Anderson, a highly respected citizen of this place, died suddenly at 7:15 o'clock last night from apoplexy. He was stricken but a few minutes before his death. Doctor Noyes was immediately summoned, but before he arrived Mr. Anderson was beyond human aid and had passed away. This is the second stroke he has been attacked with, having suffered the first one about three years ago, and he has been an invalid ever since. Mr. Anderson has carried on the business of undertaker and casket maker in American Fork for years, and has made all, or nearly all the caskets that have been used here and was well known in this section as well as throughout the state. A peculiar feature of this death is that Mr. Anderson had been expecting another attack of apoplexy and fully appreciated the fact that he was liable to sudden death at any time. Therefore he made a casket soon after his first attack for himself, made it out of oak, and as near decay proof as possible, and has had it ready to receive his body. When the sudden attack came which he has been expecting and was fully prepared for.

The deceased was born in Slagelse, Denmark, in the year 1845. He joined the Mormon church in his early manhood and emigrated to America in the year 1871. Coming direct to Utah, funeral services will be held in the Third ward meeting house Wednesday, Oct. 3, at 2 o'clock p. m. The wedding reception given at the home of Mrs. Benson in the Second ward Thursday night in honor of her daughter's marriage to Mr. Wash Varney, was a brilliant affair. The young couple were married early in the evening by President James A. Clarke. The lawn was artistically decorated and lighted with electric lights and Chinese lanterns. There was a large crowd of friends and relatives as guests and a most sumptuous wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Varney will make their home in American Fork.

The dormant condition of politics has at last been broken, and the Republicans have announced their primaries, and county convention, the former to be held on the 10th and the convention on the 15th of October. The convention will likely be held in Park City.

The Democratic dates have not yet been set, but it is expected that they will occur about the same dates, and the convention will be held in Coalville.

A building boom has struck Park City, and several new houses are under construction. Every carpenter is employed, and many jobs are waiting for men.

SPANISH FORK HAPPENINGS. Spanish Fork, Sept. 29.—David Prior, principal of the Lake Shore schools, together with his two small children, had just returned from the depot when he met with a serious accident. While removing a chair wrapped in paper from the buggy the horse got frightened and ran away. In trying to stop the horse Mr. Prior was struck by the buggy, causing a dislocation of the knee. With the aid of several neighbors Dr. Dunn of Springville, who had been summoned to aid Mr. Prior, successfully set the injured knee. The horse, in starting, gave the buggy such a jerk that it threw the two small children from the seat to the bottom of the vehicle, which probably saved their lives. Zachariah West, an aged and respected citizen of Spanish Fork, died yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Samuel Patterson, one of our most esteemed ladies, was buried yesterday. State Superintendent A. C. Nelson and County Superintendent L. E. Eggersten are visiting our schools today. The Democrats are going to have a hand shaking and general good time at the pavilion Saturday night.

NEW BANK FOR LEHI. May Be a Branch of American Fork Institution.

Lehi, Sept. 29.—Lehi is to have another bank. James Chipman of Salt Lake City, Stephen L. Chipman, Alex. Thornton and Washburn Chipman of American Fork have decided to organize a new bank in Lehi. The question of whether the present bank of Lehi is to be continued or whether it will be a branch of the Bank of American Fork.

The home of the new institution will be in the postoffice block, next door west of the postoffice. The stockholders of the present bank have decided to incorporate, making its new name the Lehi Banking company, with its principal place of business in American Fork and conducting a bank in both Lehi and American Fork. One-half of the stock will be held in each town and one-half of the board of directors will reside in each city. It is proposed to conduct the new bank along similar lines and Lehi parties will become interested with the Chipman family will be known as the down town bank.

Two steam plows are now at work in Cedar valley plowing up lands preparatory to planting dry farm wheat. One of the plows is being operated by the Cedar Valley Land & Development company, composed of Lehi, American Fork and Provo parties. The other is being operated by Bishop Sedden of Salt Lake City. The plows are being used to break up the land to a depth of eight to ten inches deep, but are not doing very satisfactory work. Heavier plows have been ordered and it is expected that they will be more successful.

William Bostwick, a musician with Mahara's minstrels, was arrested for assault and battery on his wife this morning. He was arrested by Officer Blockett, and his car last evening and was fined $5 by Judge Taylor.

SHOE BUSINESS IS LOOKING UP

Fall Trade Opens Slowly, but Promises to Be Brisk Later.

NEW STYLES IN MARKET

WOMEN ARE WEARING HEAVIER SOLES.

The fall trade in footwear is opening up slowly owing to the prolongation of summer weather. The indications, according to prominent local tradesmen, are for an unusually active business season, and stocks are filled in anticipation of the demand. The pulse of the market is good, and the sales of the better stocks are ahead of those for the corresponding period one year ago.

There are a number of changes in the fashions in both men's and women's footwear for the season. In men's shoes chrome calf, a chemically prepared leather, which contains no oil and is soft and durable, is coming to the fore.

French tanned calf, an American product, by the way, and not an imported article, as many suppose, is retaining its popularity to a marked degree. Patents, always popular, are running well to the front in the demand and are pressing the chrome and French tanned for first place.

In weights this fall a medium upper with a heavy sole is the popular thing. The hand-sewed sole is being used to a large extent, and men who desire a durable shoe, but who are not anxious for the more elaborate and ornate styles.

The dress shoes for men this fall are in the pique toe with mat kid tops, bleached calf lining and custom finish.

For heavy knockabout wear, the Cordova is gaining in demand. This leather is imported from Germany. There are only two shades of this leather, every horse hide. The leather is found on the rump of the hide, and on each side there is just enough for one shoe.

The leather is tanned and finished in Germany by a trade secret process, and is imported into America ready to be shaped.

American-grown leather is gaining ground steadily and is displacing, to a certain extent, the imported finished leathers. Horse hides are being used to a greater extent than ever before in the manufacture of shoes, and thousands of hides are imported from the South American pampas for the American market. The United States exports no hides, but a large trade in finished leathers is carried on with many countries.

Heels Are Lower.

In women's shoes buttons are coming back into favor. French heels are demanded more frequently, and the heels are even Frenchier and higher than last year. These are for dress shoes.

The tendency is to reduce the height of heels of walking shoes for women. They are getting closer to nature.

Patent leathers are popular for all purposes, and the new "gun metal," a dull finished velour calf, an oil finish, soft and durable, is a new product that is winning favor.

For evening slippers, colors in both calf and leather tops, are the thing this season. The color of the slipper top matches or harmonizes with the color of the goods in the gown.

In the walking shoes welted soles are demanded largely because of the increased area of padding in the city. These shoes are more impervious to heat and cold, and the hard pavements without resiliency, do not affect the feet of the wearer as they would be if the thin turned soles were worn. Women are accustoming themselves to the heavier soles readily, and are more comfortable when walking in the paved districts as a consequence. This style of shoe for walking purposes is rapidly displacing the turned sole.

CHINESE SKILL WITH AXES.

Carpenters of Cathay Will Compare With Occidentals.

Naturally preeminent among the skilled craftsmen of China the carpenter still maintains the leadership says the Engineering Magazine. Though almost invariably wedded to the use of the tools of his ancestors and to their methods, judged by results he is more efficient in his line than are the average American workmen.

In judging the performance of the native workmen it is almost impossible to avoid the popular bias that addition to their own methods and tools invariably bespeaks untutored conservatism. Though this is in many cases true, it will often be found on careful observation that what has passed for a stubborn blindness to the virtue of innovation is in reality a keener perception of comparative merits than the judge himself was aware of.

This is particularly true of Chinese carpenters. While most of their commonest tools differ in some radical way from our own, it is never safe to assume the superiority of the western product. Their small ax, for example, is a beautifully balanced tool and they are remarkably adept in the use of it, being able to work as true a surface therewith as can be obtained with an adze in the hands of the white man.

On heavy work it is customary for two to hew together on opposite sides, striking alternate blows. Both hands are used and the recover is over the shoulder, alternate right and left. There is a freedom of swing with an accuracy of delivery that is a treat to watch and the rapidity of blows is almost bewildering.
